1. Bodaibo (111°11'E/57°51'N), Irkutsk Oblast, is about 350 km northeast of the northern point of Lake Baikal. The airfield was outside the built-up quarter of the town, about 2 km from the terminus of the narrow-gauge railroad to Artion. There were no runways or stone buildings, but only some wooden cantonment buildings and an emergency corrugated sheet-metal hangar for aircraft.
  2. Five or six twin-engine planes were stationed at the field.
